Some limits

o fix encoding of letters positions

o monosyllabic words

o isolated words

o   alphabetic languages only o differences between languages ?

o universal model of reading ?

Towards a universal model of reading

Ram Frost
Department of Psychology, The Hebrew University, Jerusalem 91905, Israel, and Haskins Laboratories, New Haven, CT 06511
frost@mscc.huji.ac.il http://psychology.huji.ac.il/en/?cmd=Faculty.113&letter=f&act= read&id=42~frost/

Reading aloud is not just recognizing words

o Those experience in reading aloud don't just measure Visual Word Recognition, but also processes regarding phonological planning and motor programmation

o Neuroimaging and specifically ERP could be a good method to study recognition per se.